Eye to Eye—The Mennonites

• I want to express my personal appreciation for your presentation on our people (Eye to Eye, October 22 and 29 CBWT), and also on other ethnic groups in the province. You are to be congratulated on these productions. This could lead to a greater appreciation of the cultural and religious heritages of the various groups that comprise the social structure of this province.

This was a fine presentation of customs and manners, as well as an attempt to portray the entrance of our people, who have long lived in isolation, into the main stream of society. You have attempted to show a balance in portraying both the cultural and the economic and spiritual facets of the Mennonite people. . . .

Many thanks for your fine presentation.

—T.E.F., Altona, Man.

Time Out For Music

• With regard to Time Out For Music, (5:30 p.m., Mondays, CBC-TV) I do hope you will continue with this fine program. It deserves the best spot.

News at 11:00 p.m. is not pleasing to many people we know, as well as ourselves, and trust you have plans to re-schedule it to 10:00 p.m.

—C.S.W., Winnipeg.

Until the recent change, Winnipeg was one of the few cities seeing CBC-TV news at 10:00 p.m. It is the CBC's policy that network programs should be viewed at the same hour, local time, across Canada, so now that Winnipeg is seeing the late newscast at 11:00 p.m., the same as almost all other cities, no change is foreseen.

Parade of Choirs

• Just after listening to your Parade of Choirs tonight, (November 7, CBC Radio, 10:05 p.m.) under the production of your Benjamin Horch, I was prompted to these words of compliment for your terrific work and choice of music on this program. I believe that we are certainly appealing to the highest interests of man as we offer him sound choral music so well presented as this was especially.

We greatly appreciated the selections by the Mennonite Brethren Bible College's a capella choir under the direction of Victor Martens, who just last season sang our tenor solos in our annual presentation of the Messiah by our local choral society. We are indeed pleased to have this calibre of program beamed to us here in the United States.

—H.E.F., Mountain Lake, Minnesota.

Festival

• To whomever prepared The Telephone Hour on Festival, telecast on Wednesday, November 6, must go every appreciation. Here was entertainment and enjoyment at its very best. This Viennese Night gave us a delightful presentation of music which lifts the spirits and gaily brushes aside the years. The orchestra leader revelled in the beauty and joy of this beloved music, and Elisabeth Schwarzkopf has a charm and appeal rarely equalled.

Such a program can do much to bridge the gap between the world of Bach and Beethoven, and the moaning rubbish which all too often passes for music today. It was a sheer delight to be appreciated by both the serious music student and equally by those who have been denied the privilege of musical education. . . .

—D.H., Saskatoon.

An Age of Kings

• Thank you for televising An Age of Kings (Mondays, Wednesdays, CBWT, Tuesdays, Thursdays, CBXT). We just wouldn't miss the program. It is outstanding in its production and of tremendous educational value.

For Bilingual Broadcasting

• For some time I have been of the opinion that if the French Network would give an explanatory note in English that more people who do not know very much French would be attracted to listen.

. . . I would very much like to watch the French plays on TV but am handicapped by limited vocabulary.

—Mrs. J.B., Winnipeg.

Recalls the Great Operatic Prima Donnas

JOAN SUTHERLAND has been hailed as the greatest prima donna of our time, a worthy successor to a tradition that includes such names as Jenny Lind, Nellie Melba, Emma Albani, Adelina Patti and others. In the last decade the tall, statuesque Australian soprano has won acclaim in the world's opera houses, on the concert and recital stage, in recordings and broadcasts in many parts of the world. But with all the fame and accolades that have come her way she has remained the down-to-earth person she was before the world discovered her, a simple woman with a great voice, a flair for the dramatic, and an all-encompassing devotion to her art.

In an unique program on CBC-TV's Festival (Wednesday, December 11, 9:30 p.m.) Joan Sutherland, the prima donna assoluta of today, pays tribute to some of her great predecessors, evoking memories of prima donnas of the past by talking about them informally and singing excerpts from their most famous operatic roles. Richard Bonyngne, Miss Sutherland's husband, coach and mentor, the man who has been chiefly responsible for her rapid rise to musical eminence, will conduct the CBC Symphony Orchestra in the program, and a young American tenor, Richard Conrad, will appear as assisting artist, joining Miss Sutherland in two duets. Some of the numbers will be performed in costume and with sets, as they would be in the opera house, with staging by Irving Guttman and sets by Murray Laufer. The script is by Ronald Hambleton and production is by Franz Kraemer. Reflecting the unusual nature of the program is its title: A Primer on Prima Donnas - An Evening with Joan Sutherland.

It is in the operas of the Italian bel canto tradition that Miss Sutherland has scored her greatest successes - roles that call for the florid, stratospheric vocal style

WILLIAM G. RICHARDSON, CBC director of engineering and technical services, retires at the end of this year. Succeeding Mr. Richardson will be J. E. Hayes, now chief engineer at CBC Engineering Headquarters in Montreal.

R. D. Cahoon, CBC prairies regional engineer at Winnipeg, will replace Mr. Hayes.

Mr. Richardson, a veteran of Canadian broadcasting, has been director of engineering and technical services since July, 1962. He has been the Corporation's senior engineering officer since April, 1953, during the period of television's greatest growth in Canada, from the time it consisted of only two stations through to the development of the coast-to-coast network.

A B.Sc. degree graduate of Queen's University in 1926, Mr. Richardson has been connected with the CBC and its predecessor, the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, since 1935. In 1955, he was elected a Fellow of the Institute of Radio Engineers "for his contributions to the art of broadcasting, both sound and television, in Canada."

Mr. Hayes, CBC chief engineer since 1953, joined the CBC in 1936 after receiving a B.Sc. degree in electrical engineering from Queen's University in 1935. In 1945 he became assistant transmission and development engineer and, in the preparatory years prior to the start of CBC Television, he visited the United States, England and France to study the technical installations for television in those countries.

In 1951 Mr. Hayes was appointed assistant to the chief engineer and, later the same year, assistant to the director general of engineering.

Mr. Cahoon's experience in radio and television engineering has been of the widest variety since his graduation from the University of Toronto in 1934. He joined the CRBC in 1935 as studio construction engineer and a year later was special operations engineer at Montreal CBC Engineering Headquarters.

In 1939 Mr. Cahoon went to Watrous, Sask., to take charge of the 50,000-watt regional radio transmitter there. Two years later he was returned to Montreal as radio facilities engineer. In 1948, Mr. Cahoon returned to Winnipeg to become prairies regional engineer and to supervise the CBW and CBX installations.

Two years ago, in 1961, Mr. Cahoon represented the CBC at the British Commonwealth Conference on Broadcasting at New Delhi, India. Earlier that year he went to Ghana as an adviser on establishment of a television system in that country.

This year he was chosen to co-ordinate the technical agenda and papers for the engineering committee of the 1963 Commonwealth Broadcasting Conference when it met in Canada in May and June.

He is a Fellow of the Institute of Radio Engineers and a member of the Association of Professional Engineers of Manitoba.

Four Modern

German Writers

FOUR GERMAN AUTHORS who have made a particularly significant contribution to 20th-century literature—Thomas Mann, Franz Kafka, Rainer Maria Rilke and Bertolt Brecht—will be discussed on CBC Radio's University of the Air in a series of seven lectures beginning Wednesday night, December 11, at 9:00 p.m. The speaker is Dr. Hans Eichner, professor and head of the department of German at Queen's University. The program organizer is Dr. Lewis Miller.

Novelists Mann and Kafka and lyric poet Rilke are among the most important authors of this century, and dramatist Brecht has been the most widely performed German playwright on the international stage in recent years—four of his major plays have been staged frequently in Canada and the U.S., and a minor play, Arturo Ui, is currently being performed in New York with Christopher Plummer in the title role.

Dr. Hans Eichner discusses the important contribution to the world of letters by four Germans of this century. The first of his seven lectures is heard December 11 on UNIVERSITY OF THE AIR.

These writers represent a great variety of literary styles. Mann's early work was traditional in many ways, but he grew into a major exponent of the European experimental novel. Kafka was an innovator from the start. The nightmare atmosphere of some of his work and his use of the grotesque have a surrealistic flavour. Rilke's early beginnings show a kinship with the movement of art for art's sake which spread across Europe near the end of the 19th century, but he outgrew those attitudes, and the daring imagery of his mature work has exerted a significant influence on English poetry since the '30s. Brecht not only contributed great plays but also a theory of the stage and of acting which the theatre is feeling with increasing effect.

Thomas Mann, born in 1875, and awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1929, wrote a best-seller when he was 25: his novel Buddenbrooks. In his first talk, Dr. Eichner will try to account for this novel's popularity, show how it reflects one of Mann's central themes: the problem of the artist who feels he is an "outsider" and who suffers from a bad conscience, and how Mann dealt with this problem at various stages of his career.

"When the Nazis came to power in Germany," says Dr. Eichner, "Mann was driven into exile. For years he mulled over the question of how his own country, which he never ceased to love, could have become a party to the pernicious doctrines and criminal practices of National Socialism. Part of his answer is in his most unconventional novel, Doctor Faustus. In my December 8 lecture I'll show how Mann simultaneously recounts in this novel the story of the 16th-century magician, Faustus, of Nazi Germany, of modern music, and of the philosopher Nietzsche, whom he (Please turn to page 33)

Aida Opens Met Season

Verdi's well-known opera is the first of the Metropolitan Opera series to be heard on CBC Radio starting December 7 at 2:00 p.m.

THE METROPOLITAN OPERA opened its 79th season in mid-October with a daring new production of Giuseppe Verdi's most popular work, Aida, complete with what some startled first-nighters described as "hootchy - kootchy" dancers. On December 7 the same production will begin the Met's 32nd year of Saturday afternoon broadcasts direct from the stage of the venerable 80-year-old opera house in New York. The 20 broadcasts will be heard on CBC Radio, beginning at 2:00 p.m.

The opening performance stars American soprano Leontyne Price in the title role, with Georg Solti conducting. The cast includes Rita Gorr, Carlo Bergonzi, Mario Sereni and Cesare Siepi.

Besides the exciting new production of Aida, Met broadcast highlights this season include the North American premiere (February 8) of The Last Savage, a new opera by Gian-Carlo Menotti, staged by the composer and conducted by Thomas Schippers; new productions of Verdi's Falstaff (March 21), conducted by Leonard Bernstein, making his Met debut, and of Massenet's Manon (December 21); and a performance of Verdi's Requiem (March 28), never before heard in this series. Fritz Reiner, veteran of many Met performances, returns after a 10-year absence to conduct the December 10 broadcast of Goetterdaemmerung.

Radio listeners will be able to "see" the dramatically new presentation of Aida, including the strikingly modern dances, through the eyes of Milton Cross, who has described Metropolitan Opera performances on the air for 32 years, without missing one. This year his commentary will include storylines of the operas.

The regular intermission features, which play an important part in each broadcast, will be heard again. Opera News on the Air, in the Act I intermission since the 1945-46 season, presents authoritative musical personalities discussing operatic subjects from both musical and dramatic standpoints, clarifying their remarks with piano and vocal illustrations. The popular Opera Quiz, beginning its 24th year in the Act II intermission, offers home opera "experts" a chance to try to stump a panel of opera specialists, with Quiz-master Edward Downes, critic, lecturer, author and musical historian. Listeners are invited to submit questions, with or without answers, to Texaco Opera Quiz, 135 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N.Y. Gift packages are sent to those whose questions are used. Downes points out that the purpose of the quiz is not just to challenge the experts, but to provoke discussion on any operatic subject that can add to listeners' appreciation of opera.

Operas with four acts allow for a third intermission feature, Biographies in Music, in which Francis Robinson, a senior executive with the Metropolitan Opera Association, recalls lives and careers of great operatic artists of the past, with recorded illustrations.

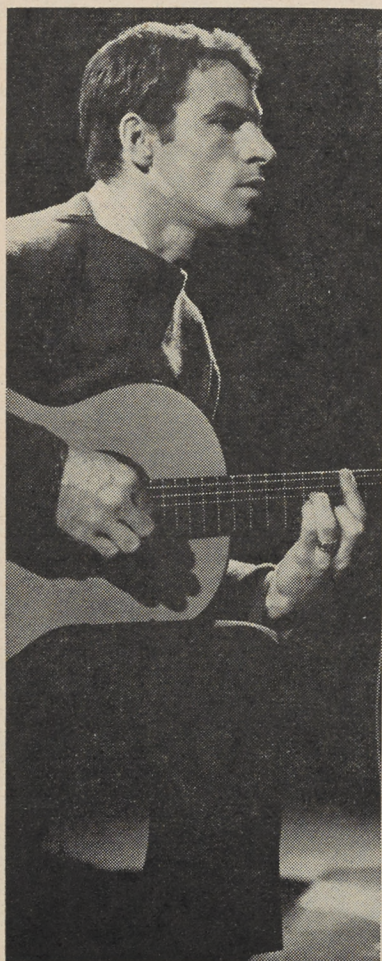

This Time, This Place

The poet-singers of French Canada are heard Sunday,
December 8 on CBC-TV's HORIZON

QUEBEC'S NEW self-confidence and vitality is being expressed in some delightful music and song which the rest of Canada hears very little about. It's the work of zestful composer-performers—chansonniers—who are emerging on the Quebec scene in ever-increasing numbers and attracting large audiences in coffee houses, night clubs, radio, television.

Speaking to and for French Canada, these poet-singers are helping their people to recognize and discover themselves in song.

Claude Gauthier

"Our roots are deep in this beautiful old province of ours, and we like to sing of our history, too," they say, "but this is now, and here's how we feel about this time, this place." Sad, romantic, satiric, tender, funny, poetic, gay—they sing of many moods, many attitudes. Through their words and music flit deep longing and much unselfconscious imagery reflecting nature and the wide, rugged landscape they sprang from.

Sunday night, December 8 at 10:00 p.m., CBC-TV's Horizon investigates Quebec's renaissance of song in This Time, This Place, an hour-long musical program featuring a few of the most interesting new chansonniers mostly performing their own work. Production is in the Toronto studios by Vincent Tovell. Host: Alex Trebec; sound consultant: Keith MacMillan.

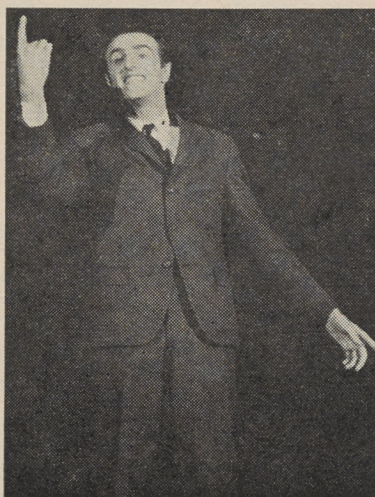

Seen on the show will be Felix Leclerc, the "spiritual father" of the group, an artist of international renown, a playwright, best-selling author, and something of a hero in his province; Lucille Dumont, one of Quebec's most popular chan- teuses; Claude Léveillé, actor clown, singer, jazz pianist and composer who spent a year in Paris writing songs for Edith Piaf; Claude Gauthier, who hails from a small village in the Quebec timberland and who sings with polish, directness and great simplicity of his questing generation; and Gilles Vigneault, a poet and intellectual who sings of actual personalities and occasions in the countryside he grew up in on the north shore of the St. Lawrence.

Vincent Tovell says, "These chansonniers will offer a wide range of material, styles and moods: folksy, satirical, nostalgic, or with a slick, downtown flavour, with full orchestra conducted by Lucio Agostini, or with guitar accompaniment. Even when their songs are topical they have a universal appeal. For most of the performers, this program marks their first invitation to perform in Canada outside Quebec. Everyone involved in the show enjoyed working with them enormously. It was an exhilarating experience."

Golf by the CHAMPIONS

*Another season of golf
by Canada's top pros
tees off Saturday,
December 7 on CBC-TV*

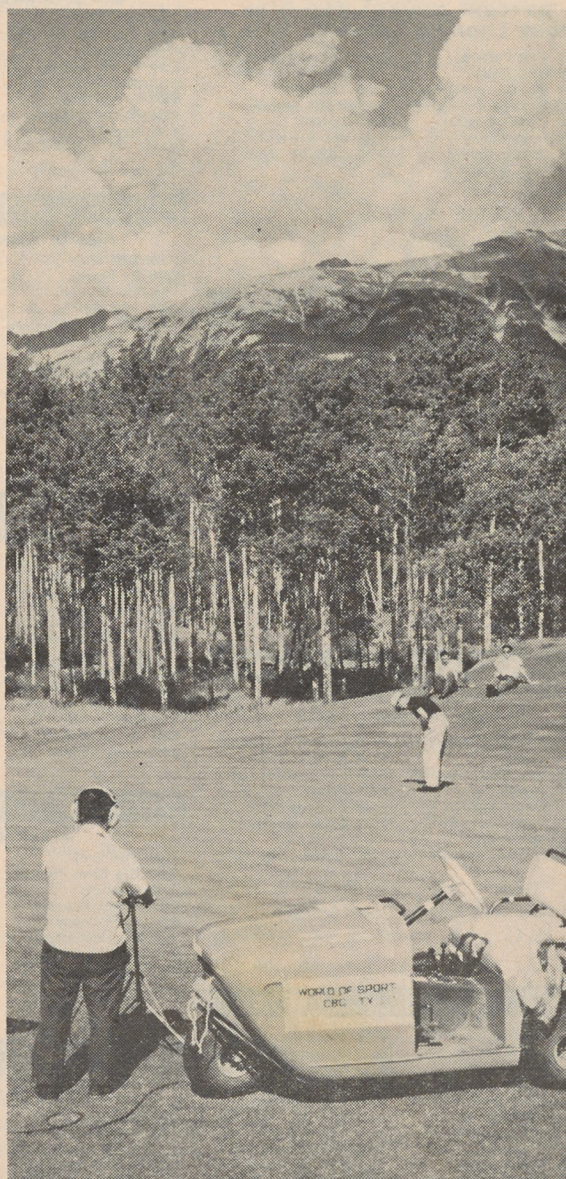

AN EVEN DOZEN of Canada's top golf pros gathered at Alberta's beautiful Jasper Park Lodge golf course for six days last August to participate in the filming of the 11 hour-long shows that make up the second season of CBC Championship Golf. The series, beginning Saturday, December 7, at 2:00 p.m., will be seen weekly as part of CBC-TV's World of Sport.

One of the largest CBC-TV film units ever assembled was on hand for the filming, and the complicated project had to be carried out with the precision of a military operation. Producer Ty Lemberg first went to Jasper in late June to scout the terrain and lay initial plans. When he returned in mid-August he was accompanied by sportscaster Steve Douglas and a 13-man film unit, comprising four camera crews plus sound-recorders and lighting technicians. The precise planning was essential because of the tight schedule planned: Eleven games had to be filmed in six days.

Using motor-driven golf carts fitted with camera platforms, the crews spent their week at Jasper "playing leapfrog" with the golfers—filming tee-off shots, then racing ahead of the players to set up for the next sequence. This made things easier for the players, who didn't have to endure long waits between shots, but it made things hectic for the cameramen, who had the added problem of trying to be as quiet and unobtrusive as possible.

The skill and experience of the crews paid off. After filming 201 holes of golf, travelling more than 420 miles around the course and shooting some 75,000 feet of film, the job was completed on schedule.

CBC Championship Golf is an elimination tournament, with the first four programs featuring games between four sets of three players each. The next four shows are two-man games among the eight low scorers. Four winners of these games move on to the two games of the semi-finals, and in the 11th game of the series the two finalists decide the championship in a one-game playoff.

CBXT—Saturday Heroes

Boys' boxing sponsored by the Elks' Club.

CBC Championship Golf

Top Canadian professional golfers compete at Jasper Park Lodge golf course in Alberta in weekly matches. The first four weeks will be qualifying rounds with three golfers competing each week. The eight low scores will then play off in four match-play rounds.

The first qualifying round has George Knudson of Toronto Oakdale, Jim Collins of Winnipeg St. Charles, and Norm Hunt of Montreal Mt. Bruno. Commentator is Steve Douglas.

The Forest Rangers

Al Hamel introduces the first of a filmed adventure series. Spike, a stray dog, comes to Indian River. Chub Stanley, one of the rangers, makes friends with Spike. When Spike gets into trouble Chub enlists the aid of all the Rangers to help him keep Spike.

Countrytime

Dr. Keith Robson of Selkirk, Man., talks about the veterinary surgeon in the community and the equipment that he uses; also household pets receive some attention.

Stan Westaway talks about the types of orchids in the home and the care of them.

Man and God In SPACE

SOME DAY a creature that is half man and half machine may leave earth to travel far into space to explore other planets. Such a creature, a man whose vital organs have been replaced by mechanical devices and instruments, is called a "cyborg" in today's scientific parlance. Already, human organs have been transplanted successfully, a fact of importance to space researchers, for man may have to make drastic organic changes in himself in order to survive space travel and life on other worlds. It is conceivable, for instance, that part of a man's brain might be replaced by a highly efficient electronic computer.

When such seemingly fantastic changes to the human organism are contemplated, what is the reaction of the theologian? Does the "cyborg" concept conflict with religious doctrine? If you change a man's body, do you tamper with his mind and spirit?

CBXT—Journey of a Lifetime

Scrolls from the Dead Sea. A series in which a young couple of today rediscover the past. Today they drive between the cliffs near the Dead Sea, where the famous Dead Sea scrolls were found. They look at the monastery where the scrolls were written and at the Jerusalem museum are given an actual scroll to handle.

NHL Hockey

Bill Hewitt reports the game from Maple Leaf Gardens where Chicago Blackhawks meet Toronto Maple Leafs.

Juliette

Special guests are Pierre LaLonde and Ginette Reno, popular vocalists from Montreal.

The Saint

The Man Who Was Lucky. Simon Templar tries to protect a turf accountant, when a nightclub owner sets out to get rid of the accountant. A 5,000 pound bait and two pretty girls help capture the would-be killer.

Roger Moore plays Simon Templar in The Saint, Saturday evening on CBC-TV.

Some answers to these and other questions will be sought on this week's edition of CBC-TV's Heritage (Sunday, December 8, 4:00 p.m.), entitled Man and God in Space. The program will begin with an exposition of some of the fascinating theories about organic changes envisaged for future spacemen, then representatives of different religions will be asked for their views on the theories and on other related topics. Among the questions to be posed are these: Is man considered the most superior form of life, next to the angels? What is the definition of "superior" in theological terms? How and what should man attempt to communicate to other civilizations?

Taking part in the program will be: Dr. Peter Millman, head of upper atmosphere research, National Research Council; Dr. J. Fernie, department of astronomy, University of Toronto; William O. Fennell, professor of theology, Emmanuel College (United Church); Rev. J. I. Hochban, lecturer in theology at Regis College, a Jesuit seminary in Toronto; Rev. D. R. G. Owen, provost of Trinity College (Anglican), University of Toronto. The program was written by Maurice Constant, a former science specialist with the National Film Board. Host and narrator is Fletcher Markle, regular host of CBC Television's Telescope.

A new adventure series, The Forest Rangers, is introduced Saturday afternoon by Al Hamel.

Heritage

Man and God in Space. The theological attitude towards man's race into space. With Fletcher Markle.

Country Calendar

1. John MacLeod reports on the Western Canada Weed Conference, which was held in Vancouver on December 2, 3 and 4.

2. A Pre-Development Farm is explained by Ian Petrie, manager of just such a farm in Outlook, Sask., and it is also illustrated by film taken at the farm.

The Sixties

Reluctant Samaritans. Second of a three-part series with host Frank McGee.

As Canadian taxpayers we are continually being told that we do not give enough for foreign aid. But what exactly is our money being used for? These three programs will try and assess Canada's accomplishments and failures so far. We shall learn from men and women who have gone abroad whether they were sufficiently equipped for the job and from people overseas whether the training they received was adequate.

Some of Those Days

Reaches back for the first time to an era almost beyond living memory, the 1880's.

Cast: Thora Anders, Betty Hilker, Pat Morgan, The Barbershop Quartet, Barney Potts, Harry Price and his Orchestra, and host Bill Bellman.

When You and I Were Young, Maggie Pat
The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze Barney
The Picture That Is Turned to the Wall Betty
Comrades quartet
Love's Old Sweet Song Thora and quartet
Oh, Dem Golden Slippers cast

Mister Ed

Home Sweet Trailer. Wilbur's former commanding officer takes up residence, with his house trailer, in the Post's back yard. Ed's resentment of the trailer in his territory leads to a minor uprising in the Post household.

Hazel

The Retiring Milkman. Hazel arranges a surprise for the retiring milkman, but the milkman comes up with a surprise of his own.

Flashback

Guest panelist is Kay Alsop, who appears regularly on CBC Winnipeg's Spotlight program. She is also a writer and fashion commentator.

Kay Alsop of Winnipeg is guest panelist Sunday on CBC-TV's Flashback. She helps regular panelists recall fads and fashions of another era.

Bonanza

The Waiting Game. Adam helps a young widow face the truth about her marriage when the woman has difficulty facing reality.

Horizon

This Time, This Place. Investigates another area of life in Quebec where new self-confidence and vitality is expressing itself in the world of the song-writer. The guests are some of the ever-increasing number of French-Canadian composer-performers who are attracting crowds to night clubs, coffee houses and television sets throughout the province.

CBWT-Desilu Playhouse

Happy Hill. Claire Trevor stars as the wife who unwillingly baits a trap laid for her escaped convict husband in this teleplay by Barney Slater.

OPERATIC PRIMA DONNAS

known as coloratura, in which vocal facility and technique are paramount. The Festival program will be devoted mainly to works of some of the foremost bel canto composers, including Ballini, Donizetti, Rossini, Ricci and Benedict, with one excerpt from Verdi's La Traviata.

Producer Kraemer recently returned to Toronto from Vancouver, where he witnessed Miss Sutherland's superb performance in a Vancouver Opera Association production of Bellini's Norma. He comments that she is "not what one usually thinks of as a prima donna" and that the fabled vanity of the typical opera star is almost entirely absent from her personality. The soprano herself has described her life as "singularly unglamorous. It is a rigid and cloistered existence."

Aside from other considerations, the lack of time would militate against any temptations for luxurious living in Miss Sutherland's case. After the Vancouver opera appearance she was bound for Philadelphia, to sing Violetta in La Traviata, in which role she will make her long-awaited first appearance at New York's Metropolitan Opera in the new year. The Festival program was videotaped during her visit to Toronto in late November, during which she gave a concert at Massey Hall.

Program Notes

DECEMBER 9

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and add'l program information

National Educational Television

International Zone: Interregnum. The 17 post-war years have brought the United Nations an enormous variety of tasks, but not until October 1962 did it ever have direct and sole responsibility for governing a territory. That was during a seven-month period of direct U.N. control over West New Guinea. Alister Cooke tells of this unique assignment.

Alberta School Telecast

Number Systems. The prime objective of this series is to acquaint high school students with some of the main characteristics and properties of the number systems commonly used in school mathematics. Instructor is Dr. L. Doyal Nelson, associate professor, faculty of education, University of Alberta in Edmonton. Today, Part 4.

Saskatchewan School Telecasts

Mathematics for Grade IX. Lesson 10. Transformation of Equations.

The guests are Patricia Medina, film and Broadway star; Princess Pauline Murat, magazine editor; and Joan Alexander, TV personality. Subject: Comparison of the way children are bought up in France and America.

Ladies First

1. Gerdine Crawford works on a mohair skirt.

2. Ruth Dyker continues her discussion on the use and care of household appliances.

Take Thirty

Barbara Chilcott, with the help of the Junior League and three young students from the National Theatre School in Montreal, has formed a new theatrical group in Toronto for the purpose of taking a program of theatre into the schools around Toronto. Miss Chilcott, along with Peter Cullen, Neil Dainard, and Lionel Simmons, will visit Take Thirty to discuss the group and give some of the selections from their program.

Statements will also be made by John Hirsch of the Manitoba Theatre Centre, Leon Major of the Neptune Theatre in Halifax, and by Jean Gascon of the Theatre du Nouveau Monde.

This Living World

Steve Bloomer talks about birds of prey, in particular about the owl, the hawk, and the Great Condor Vulture, the latter being the highest-flying bird in the world.

CBWT—Kerry Wood Storybook

Rock Tumbling. From his hobby corner, Kerry Wood turns his attentions to "rock tumbling," a fascinating hobby for youngsters who have collected and saved pebbles and rocks from trips to the lake or seashore.

Time Out for Music

Features Georges LaFleche, Mary Nowell, and Bob McMullin and the Orchestra. The theme of this week's show is Songs from Broadway. Produced by Ray McConnell.

Who Will Buy?Georges
SomewhereMary
It Ain't Necessarily So.....Bob
My Favourite Theme.....orchestra
(Originally scheduled for last week.)

CBXT—Sports Page

Devoted to all types of sports activities of significant interest to the Edmonton community with CBC sportscaster Glenn Bjarnason. In addition to an interesting sports feature, Lionel Wood, prominent Alberta curler, demonstrates more tips for the novice curler: how to deliver the rock properly and how to seat yourself in the hack. Producer, Dave Smiley.

CBWT—Reach for the Top

Competing this week are Westwood Collegiate, and Garden City Collegiate.

Don Messer's Jubilee

Special guests are Cliff and Brian Adams, a father and son step-dance team from Conn., Ont.

Garry Moore Show

Garry's guests include comedian Jackie Mason; singer Nancy Dussault; and singer John Gary.

Playdate

The Queen of Spades. by Alexander Pushkin. Adapted for television by Leo Orenstein. Produced by Ronald Weyman.

Ernst Herman's consuming passion is to learn the secret of the cards, a secret known only to the aged Countess Anna. In an effort to gain the old lady's confidence, he courts her timid young companion Lisa.

Cast: John Colicos as Herman; Hilary Vernon as Countess Anna; Patricia Collins as Lisa; Dermot Grice as Paul; Charles Palmer as Narumov; Ivan Thorne as Dealer.

(Originally scheduled for November 11, but pre-empted.)

Explorations

Pets. Part 2. This program deals with the psychological and social implications of pets. Interviewed are Mother Cecilia Mary of the Good Shepherd shelter for animals in Victoria; Vancouver psychiatrist Dr. Norman B. Hirt; and Mr. Crosier, director of the SPCA in Los Angeles.

(Originally scheduled for December 2.)

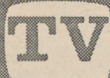

CBWT—An Age of Kings

Uneasy Lies the Head. (Henry IV, Part II, Acts 3, 4 and 5.) The burdens of Kingship oppress Henry IV. Despite failing health he organizes a campaign against the rebels.

(A repeat of last Wednesday's feature.)

CBXT—Thriller

The Return of Andrew Bentley. Heeding a hurried call from his uncle, a nephew and his wife agree to take part in a mysterious bequest. In return for all of his uncle's substantial worldly possessions, the couple agree to guard his tomb and protect his soul from the spirit of the late Andrew Bentley, his sworn enemy.

Ladies First

1. Co-hosts Jo Everett and Ernie Poscente introduce Gloria Runnells who gives more hints on how to be a good hostess.

2. Jo and Ernie pay a visit to the Queen Elizabeth Planetarium for a talk to the Director, Ian McLennan. Producer, Gloria Germain, CBC Edmonton.

Take Thirty

In connection with Human Rights Day, guests will be Allan Borovoy, associated with the application of Human Rights Legislation to Labour, J. R. Carroll, of the Federal Department of Labour, and Dan Hill, director of the Human Rights Commission. Discrimination in the area of housing, public facilities and employment will be discussed.

Fireball XL-5

Space City Special. Venus and the passengers of a supersonic air liner find themselves in grave peril when it is discovered that their pilot has been brainwashed by the evil Subterrains to crash the liner.

Come Listen Awhile

Regulars Bud Spencer and the George Calangis Orchestra featuring Pat Trudell, are joined by guest Betty Phillips.

CBWT—Glynis

Castra Nostra. Glynis joins a murder syndicate to protect her husband's client, a wealthy cat.

CBXT—An Age of Kings

Fall of a Protector. (Henry VI, Part II, acts 1, 2 and 3.) Margaret of Anjou marries King Henry VI, becoming Queen of England and thereby adding to the existing factions that divide the court. The Duke of York begins his ascent to power. With Bedford's death, Suffolk plots the Duke of Gloucester's fall and despite Henry VI's ineffectual protests, Gloucester's fall and murder are agreed upon.

Patty Duke Show

The Song Writers. Patty Lane borrows a published poem and passes it off as her own to win back her boy friend. Patty's plan backfires when Cathy decides to put the poem to music and enter it in a song writing contest.

Meet Sammy Davis Junior

Apart from the magic drawing appeal of Sammy Davis himself, the unique and exciting aspect of this particular show is that it gives full range to Davis' vast versatility, allowing him complete freedom on his own throughout the entire hour.

Davis sings, dances, and mimics, and in one novelty act, performs his famous "western" draws with an efficiency that would make Matt Dillon cringe. He does impersonations of Sinatra, Martin, Bogart, and Grant. Another unique routine involves Davis and his drummer in which Sammy sings entirely to a subtle musical background of a drum beat.

Front Page Challenge

Guest panelist is Andrew Allan, freelance director.

CBC Newsmagazine

With host Norman DePoe, cameras visit the scene of happenings of top current interest.

A report on the shipment of grain to the Soviet Union at the time of the seasonal closing of the St. Lawrence Seaway. Tim Ralfe covers the effects of the sale on a Saskatchewan wheat farmer, then traces the shipping process through the Lakehead, the St. Lawrence Seaway, Montreal and the East Coast.

Quest

O Canada. A dramatic film about what producer Cliff Solway calls "post revolutionary" Montreal made in the "cinema verite" style of the young French-speaking film makers. Some of Montreal's finest young actors appear in several brief scenes shot in authentic Montreal settings, in an attempt to capture for English-speaking viewers a picture of the discontent of young Quebecers, and their determination to overthrow "English domination." Script by Anthony Ferry, narration by Len Birman, and photography by Robert Crone.

Cast: Catherine Begin, Yves Le-tourneau, Yves Gelinas, Gaetan Fraser, Louise Remy, and others.

East Side, West Side

George C. Scott stars as social worker Neil Brock.

DECEMBER 11

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and add'l program information

Western School Telecasts

Explore and Map—Lesson 6 (Grades 3 and 4). Building on skills practised earlier, students undertake an imaginary journey to Frobisher Bay, by means of a globe and wall map. Once there, a series of local studies are made, using photographs, and the information is recorded on the map.

Ladies First

1. In preparation for the holiday season Mat Gauer shares her recipe for mince tarts.

2. Mrs. Norma Springford, who has most of her life been involved in amateur theatre, discusses drama in Canada.

Take Thirty

1. Guest will be Esther Ghan, leader of a choir in Bethel Synagogue, Toronto.

National School Telecasts

The Laws We Live By. Deals with the judiciary, and the systems which control our courts. Where the provincial and federal governments have the power to make laws, it is the responsibility of the courts to interpret them and to settle disputes under those laws.

Girl Talk

Guests are Faye Emerson, actress; and Lisa Howard, TV news reporter. Subject: The Mona Lisa, an exhibition opening in New York, and newscasters and commentators and their work.

CBXT—Gale Storm

Capri. In an attempt to get Nugey a date on the romantic island of Capri, Susanna hints that Nugey is a multi-millionaire.

CBWT—Gale Storm

It's Murder, My Dear. Melodrama, madness and near-murder mix into Susanna's misadventures with Boris Karloff, who guest stars in a dual role.

Ladies First

1. June Sheppard reviews a recent best-seller.

2. Jo Everett and Ernie Poscente visit a Thrift Shop run by the Junior League.

Producer—Gloria Germaine. From Edmonton.

Take Thirty

1. Dorothy Allen-Gray, editor of a new cook book called Fare Exchange, prepares Speculoos, an old European recipe for Christmas cookies.

2. Paul Kligman reads from Leo Rosten's The Education of Hyman Kaplan—the chapter in which Hyman renders for his English teacher Mr. Parkhill his own version of the Christmas story.

CBXT—St. Lawrence North

On the Sea. On this rocky northern coast there are no roads or railroads, but the film shows glimpses of the shipping, and the shipwrecks that play such an important part in the lives of the people.

Music Hop

Guests on this show are Candy Scott, singer; and Pierre LaLonde, singer from Montreal.

Ilona Kombrink, above, stars with Peter Palmer Thursday on Parade, in a chamber opera by Leonard Bernstein.

CBXT—West on Five

Featuring Edmonton's finest western music talent. Regulars are host "Old Dad" Taylor, the Westinaires, vocalists Maureen Whiteley and Jack Denistoun with Bob Adamson and Andy Kuiper alternating appearances. Producer, William Burley.

CBWT—Biography

John Barrymore. The happiest moments of John Barrymore's life were spent before a camera or on stage. He was an astonishing man—a matinee idol, an unsurpassed Shakespearian actor, a great Hollywood star—one of the most electric personalities of his time. His story is told in film and narration.

Candid Camera

People caught in silly or embarrassing moments are target for Allen Funt and his hidden camera. Their reactions to unusual situations form the basis for this amusing program. Host is Durward Kirby.

The Serial

The Wings of Night. Episode 2. Neil Jamieson begins to suspect that Quarrender has more at stake than the acquisition of a few acres of timberland from Neil's grandmother. He seeks the aid of Peter Carr, a young lawyer, who believes that this part of the Maritimes can be restored, and that people like the Senator are hindering progress. Neil meets Tally Prendergast, a local school-teacher, and renews his friendship with Johnny Brant, the Indian.

Cast: Karen James as Tally, John Drainie as Peter Carr, Eric Clavering as Johnny Brant.

Parade

Trouble in Tahiti. A chamber opera written by Leonard Bernstein. Ilona Kombrink and Peter Palmer star in this production.

CBXT—An Age of Kings

The Fall of a Protector. (Henry VI, Part II, Acts 1, 2 and 3.) Margaret of Anjou marries King Henry VI, becoming the Queen of England and thereby adding to the existing factions that divide the court. The Duke of York begins his ascent into power. With Bedford's death, Suffolk plots the Duke of Gloucester's fall, and despite Henry VI's ineffectual protests, Gloucester's fall and murder are agreed upon. (Repeat of Tuesday's 6:45 p.m. episode.)

CBWT—Thriller

Friend of the Dead. A night attendant in a morgue has the incredible ability to converse with the dead.

Western School Telecasts

Explorations in Art. (Grades 5-8). Conducted by Mina Forsyth. Today, Lesson 4: Pottery. An appreciation of pottery, its history and methods of making it. A practical demonstration of making a coil pot is included.

Girl Talk

Guests are Renee Taylor, comedienne; Susan Baker, actress; and Jennifer Baker, actress.

Subjects: American men vs. Englishmen, and their behaviour towards young girls and women. What the Baker twins discovered in America.

Ladies First

Fashion consultant Marilyn Phillips helps us prepare for holiday entertainment with some thoughts on clothes for various occasions, and some ideas about the role of the charming hostess and a charming guest.

Take Thirty

Pat Patterson chooses records suitable for Christmas presents and Paul Soles celebrates in his own way the 50th anniversary of the crossword puzzle.

CBXT—Tales of the Riverbank

Actual animals act out stories. This week, The Golden Flower, part one. Hamster, Roderick and Guinea Pig go on a treasure hunt.

CBXT—Stu Davis

Cowboy troubadour Stu Davis tells the story of The Trail of the Iron Horse, then sings John Henry, The Song of the Violet and That Wild Black Engine. Produced by Les MacDiarmid, CBC Edmonton.

Kingfisher Cove

With host Pat Napier, Clarence Fleiger, Phyllis Ensher, Jean Marshall, Irena Boyer, and the orchestra conducted by David Wood.

The Defenders

The Crowd Pleaser. Lawrence and Kenneth Preston defend a prize fighter, who accidentally kills a man who has been paying attention to the boxer's estranged wife. (Previously scheduled for November 29.)

Telescope

A Winter's Tale. Jonathan Winters leads Telescope wildly through a celebrity-crowded Hollywood premiere and into his own particular "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World." In this first of two parts, we meet Stanley Kramer and stars of the film.

Telescope attends A Press Party

THE OLD-TIME "medicine man's" approach was crude and primitive, but its psychology was sound. In fact, the basic idea hasn't changed much up to the present. Only the techniques and scale of the operation have been altered. Razzle-dazzle and hoopla are still seemingly indispensable ingredients for the promotion of everything from can-openers to multi-million-dollar businesses.

Among the most ambitious and costly of attention-getting publicity schemes are the press junkets indulged in particularly by the owners of plush new hotels or promoters of new motion pictures. In order to reap a few mentions in newspaper columns or on radio, promoters will cheerfully shell out thousands of dollars to fly disc jockeys, columnists and critics for a week-end of freeloading festivities to mark the opening of a new hotel in Jamaica or a new film in Hollywood.

One such press party was arranged recently in connection with the opening of the Stanley Kramer film It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World. Hundreds of film critics, columnists and other potential part-time publicists from about 20 countries were flown to Hollywood for four days of brain-rinsing and attitude-softening prior to the first press screening of the new picture. The days and nights were filled with parties, receptions and special shows intended to put the opinion moulders into a happy and receptive frame of mind.

Mingling with the guests at the many free functions were an unobtrusive cameraman and sound recorder from CBC-TV's Telescope. The results of their work will be seen on the next two editions of the show (Friday, December 13 and 20, 9:30 p.m.). Acting as "escort" for Telescope's viewers throughout the proceedings will be Jonathan Winters, one of the maddest of the mad, mad comedians.

Program Notes

December 7

11:00 a.m.—Matinee Highlights

1. Documentary about the value of home and school associations, prepared by broadcaster Marguerite McLean.

2. Ed Reid humorously describes the hazards of shooting an elephant in India.

(Note: This material was originally scheduled for broadcast on Saturday, November 23.)

1:15 p.m.—Sports College

1. Lessons from the Grey Cup, an analysis of the game.

2. Don't be afraid of getting fit. Points out that while people want to be fit, they say they are afraid of exerting themselves, or use some other excuse.

1:45 p.m.—Chansonnettes

French songs introduced by Jacques Desbaillets.

2:00 p.m.—Metropolitan Opera

Aida. Grand Opera in four acts by Verdi; with Leontyne Price, soprano, as Aida the Ethiopian slave; Rita Gorr, mezzo-soprano, as Amneris, daughter of the King; Carlo Bergonzi, tenor, as Radames; Cesare Siepi, bass, as Ramfis, the high priest; and Mario Sereni, baritone, as Amonasro, King of Ethiopia. The action is in Egypt during the reign of the Pharaohs.

Act I. Aida, unknown as the daughter of Amonasro, lives at Memphis as a slave. Her father has made an incursion into Egypt to deliver her. Aida loves Radames, a young warrior, but has an imperious rival in Amneris, the daughter of the king. Radames is selected to be the leader of the army against Amonasro. Aida's heart is torn between the love for her father and for Radames.

Change of scene. Temple of Vulcan. Solemn ceremonies and dance of priestesses. Installation of Radames to the office of commander-in-chief.

Act II. Amneris' chamber. Slaves dance before Amneris. She receives Aida and cunningly draws from her the avowal of her love for Radames.

Change of scene. Radames returns victorious. Grand triumphal march. Amonasro appears as a captive, unrecognized except by Aida. He declares that the Ethiopian king has been slain in battle. The prisoners are released at the request of Radames and the grateful king of Egypt declares him his successor and the betrothed of his daughter.

Act III. On the banks of the Nile. Amonasro and Aida are held as captives and he forces her to learn from Radames the position of the Egyptian army. Radames only seemingly consents to become the husband of Amneris and is persuaded through love for Aida to give her the information required by her father. When Amonasro reveals his identity and flies with Aida the despairing Radames surrenders his sword to Ramfis.

Feature 'Cellists On Music Programs

WHEN THE VIOLONCELLO evolved from the bass viol and took its place as tenor member of the violin family, it offered less scope than a violin for displaying bowing skill, but it brought a bitter-sweet quality to string music that Handel, Bach and a few other composers were quick to appreciate and employ in its widest range. Unfortunately many composers have not exploited the 'cello's mellow voice as extensively as they have that of other stringed instruments. Though limited, its concert repertoire is an interesting one, especially in the hands of virtuosos such as three who will be heard on CBC Radio this week.

On Thursday night, December 12, at 11:00 local time, the celebrated Russian 'cellist Mstislav Rostropovitch will make the first of two appearances in the Symphony Hall series. On this occasion he will be soloist with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Walter Susskind.

A former professor at the Moscow Conservatory, the 36-year-old 'cellist is also a pianist and composer of note. On his extensive North American and European tours he has been described as the peer of modern 'cellists and the uncontested successor to Pablo Casals. Later this season Rostropovitch appears on CBC-TV's Fes- tival in a special program by Russian artists.

On CBC Sunday Night, December 8, at 11:30 local time, there will be a recital by Montreal 'cellists Lotte Brott and Walter Joachim, with harpsichodist Kelsey Jones.

Originally the 'cello was a man's instrument, but thanks to a small mechanical invention, the tailpin used to support the 'cello on the floor, its popularity spread to women musicians. Among these, Lotte Brott is outstanding. German-born, she studied in Switzerland with such famous 'cellists as Emanuel Feuermann, and, after coming to Canada in 1939, Zara Nelsova. Mrs. Brott has played with the Montreal Symphony, McGill Chamber Orchestra, and its predecessor, the McGill String Quartet, for 22 years, and appears often as recitalist on stage, radio and television.

Walter Joachim, also German-born, studied on scholarship at the State Academy in Cologne, and for four years occupied the first chair in the 'cello section of the Cologne Chamber Orchestra. While he was on a world tour with the Quartetto d'Italia, the Second World War broke out. Joachim spent 10 years in Shanghai as teacher to the master class for 'cellists at the National Conservatory. Since settling in Canada in 1952 he has performed many times on CBC Radio and Television and in leading concert halls.

New Interest In Pre-Bach Music

THE LAST DECADE has seen a strong resurgence of popular interest in the music of the pre-Bach period. The reasons for this renewal of interest are obscure. Perhaps some music-lovers, sated with 19th-century Romanticism and wary of contemporary composition, are discovering new and refreshing musical experiences in the brilliant works of Medieval and Renaissance epochs. Credit must go to the efforts of such groups as the Dolmetsch family and the New York Pro Musica in bringing early music out of the limbo into which it had vanished, but whatever the reasons, interest has now been extended through concerts, broadcasts and recordings, to include a much wider public for ancient music than existed a generation ago.

The music of Medieval and Renaissance periods shows continuous development and covers a wide range of styles, a fact which seems surprising only because little attention has been given to the period. When one considers that the span between, say, Pope Gregory's codification of plainsong chants (about 595) and the Elizabethan madrigalists, is more than 1,000 years, one can understand what a wealth of musical material is available, though still largely neglected. And while musical development in earlier ages was slow, it was not by any means nonexistent.

The hazy indifference to early music can result in glaring anachronisms. Minnesingers and meister-singers, for instance, are sometimes lumped together as contemporaries, whereas in fact they were separated (in time as well as in style) by as wide a gulf as exists between Schubert lieder and the latest popular songs. Instruments, too, were much more diverse in earlier times than they are today. The 14th-century composer Machaut mentions having heard 30 different kinds of instruments at one time; the modern symphony orchestra may contain 20 (though many more of each kind).

In an hour-long program on CBC Sunday Night this week (December 8, 9:00 p.m.), a glimpse into the life and times of the period from Charlemagne to Queen Elizabeth the First — that is, from about 800 to 1600 — will be provided through music and poetry of the age. Taking part will be the Montreal Consort of Viols, directed by Otto Joachim; Le Petit Ensemble Vocal, directed by George Little; contralto Sally Hayden; and actor Powys Thomas, who will read narration and poems relating to the period. The music will range from Gregorian chant through early forms of polyphony to the so-called Golden Age of the late Renaissance.

Baritone James Monk of Calgary is heard Monday at 7:45 p.m. on Song Recital.

Racial Equality In Canada?

DECEMBER 10 — Human Rights Day, and the CBC marks the occasion with a special radio program in the first half of the regular Trans-Canada Matinee format, on Tuesday, December 10, at 2:03 p.m. (2:33 p.m. on CBX), replacing Matinee Quiz, and titled Can We Cast the First Stone?

Written by freelance writer and broadcaster Jim McLean, the 30-minute program investigates the incidence of racial discrimination against Negroes in Canada. Produced by Bob Nichols, the program quickly establishes that discrimination does exist, among all levels of society, but for the most part, it asserts itself either camouflaged or inverted—"camouflaged" in as much as many people are aware of their own resentments but are attempting to overcome them, or "inverted" in that many persons try too hard to show an embarrassing friendliness to Negroes which still emphasizes the basic difference between the Negro and his white brethren.

Among those giving opinions on the question are Toronto Baptist minister A. S. Markham, who has one of the largest Negro congregations in Canada; Montreal newspaperman Alvin Johnson, himself active in anti-discrimination campaigns; Frank Crockett, editor, and president of the Alberta Association for the Advancement of Coloured Peoples; and Dalhousie University professor Guy Henson.

McLean discovered that many Negroes have ceased to care about bettering themselves in Canada, where many have discovered that even a university degree fits them for nothing more intellectually stimulating than being a porter.

"Some have told me that they feel the situation in the States or in South Africa is almost preferable to that in Canada—at least in those places the Negro knows where he stands. There it's open warfare. Here it's more of a cold war," McLean noted.

Claude Léveillé, is a 31-year-old Montrealer who made his début at 22 in a concert at the University of Montreal, where he studied political economy and sociology. The audience's wild enthusiasm precipitated him into a professional career in Montreal cabarets almost overnight. Later he became an actor, disk-jockey and script-writer in TV and Radio. When Edith Piaf heard him perform she was so impressed by his song-writing ability that she arranged for him to write exclusively for her in Paris, where he composed Vieux Piano, Boulevard du Crime, and many other songs which she recorded with success. When illness forced Mlle. Piaf to take a long rest Léveillé moved to New York, where he wrote the score for a musical comedy with lyricist Gladys Shelley and Anita Loos.

Even Miss Loos finds his music difficult to describe. "It is vibrant, strong, and in no way reminiscent of any other composer," she says. "His songs burst instantly into melodies without preamble. They will haunt you for a long, long time."

Gilles Vigneault, who hails from Natashquan, a village on the St. Lawrence off Anticosti Island, is something of a paradox. He's a graduate of Laval University, writes poetry and edits a poetry magazine, but his music and lyrics are coloured by the unsophisticated countryside and country dialects of Quebec. He has written 100 songs and two books and says there are lots more to come.

Novelist Hugh MacLennan calls Claude Gauthier "a singer of rare style, talent and emotional force. He makes no attempt to tell us who his people are. Instead, he makes us feel who they are. Here is French folk music, not quaint but authentically modern, re-emerging out of a long deep-freeze in a stern, cold, but marvelously beautiful province now discovering the adventure of expressing its own experience, its own deeply-felt emotions."

Lucille Dumont is a charming Montrealer who has been captivating audiences since she made her radio début as a teenager in 1935. Her warmly-expressive style has been a regular attraction in radio, TV and cabarets ever since—Quebec critics consider her one of the finest interpreters of the new songs of French Canada.

Felix Leclerc has long been admired in Quebec for his sensitive expression of his people's spirit in songs, which he's been writing since 1932. Thirteen years ago he took them to Paris for the first time and was an instant success. He sang them in France, Spain, Italy, Switzerland, Algeria, Israel — and became a legend. Then he returned to a farm in Vaudreuil, and there the CBC-TV cameras visit him as he sings and talks about Quebec's "song explosion." He's a gentle, sincere, hard-working idealist who prefers to live close to the land he loves, to travel around his province singing to ordinary men and women about themselves and their dreams. "We go now into maturity," he says of his people today. "We express what we really see, what we really are."

11:00 p.m.—Music of Handel

Prepared and introduced by Alan Sangster:

Act 2, Israel in Egypt Handel

The vast Greater Winnipeg Floodway is visited on The Changing Face of the West, Wednesday at 10:05 p.m. Larry Glover, above, is commentator.

FOUR MODERN GERMAN WRITERS

loved and admired but whom he held partly responsible for Germany's lapse into barbarism." Dr.
Eichner illustrates how, in Mann's view, these themes support each other and help us understand modern history.

Many admirers of Franz Kafka find his novels and short stories depressing. While his books are somewhat obscure in the sense that no two critics seem to agree in their interpretation of them, he ranks among the leading handful of prose writers of the century. Dr.
Eichner will explain this paradox in his January 1 talk (the series will not be heard on Christmas Day), showing that Kafka is one of the great innovators in modern prose fiction, and offering an interpretation of his work wide enough to accommodate many critics' interpretations.

Rainer Maria Rilke has been studied more extensively outside
Germany than any German lyric poet since Goethe. On January 8
Dr. Eichner discusses Rilke's fascinating, unusual personality, shows how Rilke's failures and difficulties as a person are linked with his poetic achievements, reads and interprets some of the best poetry of his middle period. On January 15
Dr. Eichner surveys Rilke's *Duino
Elegies*, and a cycle of 55 sonnets, shows how they attempt to provide an answer to problems in Rilke's own life, and discusses the formal mastery that makes them the poet's crowning achievement.

In the January 22 lecture Dr.
Eichner discusses *The Threepenny
Opera* as an example of Brecht's dramatic prowess and assigns it a place in Brecht's development as a writer. Eichner shows how Brecht's political extremism led to his formulating an exciting, influential theory of the stage and of acting, but also made him misapply his talents for a while.

On January 29 Dr. Eichner analyzes Brecht's Mother Courage and
The Life of Galileo to show how they reflect the playwright's theory of the "epic theatre," indicates some of Brecht's major virtues as a dramatist, and tells of his return to East
Germany after the Second World War and of his peculiar position under Communist dictatorship.

Dr. Eichner was born in Vienna, studied at the University of London, where he also taught, and has been on the Queen's faculty since 1950. His published works include a study of Thomas Mann in German, and he is co-editor of the critical edition of Friedrich Schlegel's works.

A Simple Symphony Britten

9:45 a.m.—Court of Opinions
(9:30 a.m. on CBX)

Members of the panel are Andrew Allan, Jean Tweed, Barbara Moon and Lister Sinclair. Questions to be discussed are:

1. Are we influenced by style more than by quality?
2. Should our courts be placing more people on probation?
3. What is our silliest fad or fashion?

2:03 p.m.—Trans-Canada Matinee
(2:33 p.m. on CBX)

A special interview with Margaret Ferrar, the New York Times crossword puzzle editor. Interviewer is Trudy Kassner of Montreal.

7:20 p.m.—Speaking Personally

How Many Centuries? How long has man occupied what is now Saskatchewan? How many races have hunted over the prairie and left their weapons, tools and occupational traces for modern day archeologists to find? Some answers to these questions are given by Jean Hinds, Regina broadcaster, who tells about recent work done in Saskatchewan to decipher its many-layered record of the past.

8:00 p.m.—Assignment

Alistair Hunter, book editor of the Hamilton Spectator, describes what's new in children's books for Christmas.

8:30 p.m.—Radio International

From Sweden, Swedish folk music and carols.

9:30 p.m.—Chamber Music

Featuring the Cassenti Players from Vancouver.

Tropi Castiglioni
Suite, op. 11 Goehr
